Characters

6 male characters (3 primary, 3 supporting). Some roles can be doubled-up. Male age range from late 20s to 40s.

2 female characters (1 20s-40s and 1 40s-60s).

Accents are predominantly Australian. Certain supporting male characters may benefit from a generic 'European' accent.

- Frank Bailey - Loud-mouthed, aggressive proprietor of a Bondi Beach legal practice. In his mid-fifties, he is totally self-absorbed and cares little for the plight of others.
- Brad Pitt - A lawyer in his forties who finds it difficult to decide if he is a man or a mouse. Completely lacking in self-confidence, he is prone to panic attacks.
- Frances Denyer - An elegant and attractive woman in her late thirties; she is a caring and gentle soul.
- Simon Crookwell - A tall, brash young lawyer who has a take-no-prisoners attitude to everything. Best described as a rottweiler with a law degree, he will crush you as soon as he looks at you.
- Magistrate Newman - In her fifties, this judicial officer has a no-nonsense approach to the conduct of cases and wears a permanent scowl on her face but is nicknamed 'Smiley'.
- Dr James Nash - A veterinary surgeon in his thirties, he is a composed and thoughtful man, not easily ruffled.
- Prof. Von Schlessler - Of German extraction, this Chemistry Professor is deeply suspicious, overly cautious and very definite and precise in his views.
- Dr Gavin Roberts - Australia's leading equine dermatologist is so full of himself his cup certainly runneth over. He has a commanding presence and a pompous tone in his voice.
